

Debating on the debates?

Do your civic duty

and participate in an international research project at the same time

Please come and watch (or listen to) the presidential debates this Friday, Sept. 26, and Oct. 7, and/or the vice presidential debate Thurs., Oct. 2.

Where: Hibbard Humanities Hall 102

When: Starting at 7:45 p.m. all three nights, with 15 minutes of your responses to research questions before the debate and 15-30 minutes after the debate.

What: To voluntarily participate in a research project led by Fulbright Scholar Mike Dorsher and Journalism Professors Jack Kapfer and Jan Larson, along with participants at McGill University in Montreal, Canada. Upon arrival, half the participants will be randomly assigned to listen to the debate without any video and the other half will watch the full televised version.

Who: YOU – any UW-Eau Claire student, staff or faculty member. Please come – and please bring your friends! If possible, let me know you're coming or send your questions about the project by e-mailing mdorsher@uwec.edu
