In our chapter, we discussed the ethical implications regarding technology and copyright in the music classroom. We noticed a limited literature base addressing digital media use and ethical use of these materials. The purpose of this chapter was to present the theoretical gap between music, education, and ad business and to provide recommendations for practice including the engagement of both students and colleagues in dialogues regarding ethical use.