Operations/Materials Management
Operations/Materials Management

The operations/materials management emphasis within the management program prepares students for success through a curriculum that includes a strong liberal education core, and major-specific coursework in business, and production and service operations management. The program also helps students develop communication, teamwork, and problem solving skills, which are highly valued by organizations seeking to employ operations/materials management professionals.

Graduates find employment in a variety of industries and organizations. They work as professionals in areas such as inventory control, materials management, operations management, production, purchasing, and quality control.
