MLA Works Cited Entries

When writing in MLA style, you include a works cited page at the end of your paper. This page contains full citations of all the sources that used in your work. Here are some basic rules to follow when creating your works cited page:

1. Begin your works cited page after the body of your paper and on a separate page.
2. Title the page Works Cited (centered, not bolded, not italicized).
3. Double space all citations.
4. Use a hanging indent (0.5 inches) for second and all subsequent lines of each citation.
5. Organize all entries alphabetically by the last names of authors.
