Honors Application Process

Step 1: Candidates for the Honors Program will be identified upon completion of sixty (60) credits and having an appropriate GPA. Any interested students will meet with their Advising, Retention, and Career Center (ARCC) advisor to discuss the Honors Program and its requirements.

Step 2: The student will then submit the application form and essay, working with their ARCC advisor as needed. Prior to doing so, the student should meet with a faculty member(s), who might serve as a potential mentor, to obtain informal approval for the application.

Step 3: The Department Honors Committee will meet and, if the student is approved, assign a faculty mentor to work with the student until graduation for each project.

Step 4: For each project, the faculty mentor(s) and student will develop a plan, which must be approved by the Department Honors Committee prior to the beginning of the project, to complete the requirements for the Honors Program.

Step 5: The faculty mentor(s) and student will meet on a regular basis to review progress. Adjustments to the project, if any, will be made in progress by the faculty mentor(s) as needed and in consultation with the Department Honors Committee.

Step 6: Final review will be completed by the Department Honors Committee before awarding Honors distinction upon graduation.
