

The CETL Summer SoTL Grant Program

A. Purpose and Overview

In the Summer Scholarship of Teaching and Learning (SoTL) Grant Program, CETL will support educator/student collaborative projects for the development and assessment of teaching research questions. Development of the project will occur during the summer in collaboration with one or more students, and the implementation and evaluation will occur during the following academic year

This grant includes a stipend for the educator ($2,300), stipends for one or two student collaborators ($2,300 each), and up to $600 for materials. Funds will be available from July 1 until June 30, or one fiscal year. Projects that involve two educators, and up to four students working together are acceptable. Project participants will participate in consultations with CETL staff designed to help collaboratively create effective projects. Projects should lead to presentations and/or publication of results where possible.
