

Winnifred Bryant

Associate Professor
Biology

Human Sexual Biology

Great River Learning

This textbook is written for nonmajors. It covers basic biological concepts of cell biology and genetics in the context of reproduction. The formation of sex cells, structure, function, control and coordination of the human reproductive system is discussed. In addition, the text addresses problems of lactation and fertility, sexuality, birth control challenges, and sexual health.

