Information for the Pre-Health Professional!

Course Opportunity! Psych. 353-offered Winterm and Summer 2020!

For students who are pre-med or interested in a health profession: Some medical schools require at least one humanities/social science writing-intensive course as part of their prerequisites for admission. This course meets the requirements that satisfy the criteria as a writing intensive course.

If you are pre-health and seeking to use the course to fulfill a writing-intensive, social-science course, Dr. Jewett will work with you to fulfill those requirements (a sufficient number of writing assignments, a substantial research paper, and a bibliography or works cited page). NOTE: the additional writings will not be required of students who are fulfilling the course for other reasons (e.g., a category course for psychology majors or minors).

Questions? Contact Dr. David Jewett at JEWETTD@uwec.edu
