To: Eliminate

Rationale: Effective August 1, 2018, The Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction (DPI) changed the rules for teacher licensure. The revised rules changed the specific subject licenses (history, political science, geography, economics, sociology) in social studies to a broad license in social studies that should include all subject areas. In other words, we will be preparing education students to teach ALL subject areas within a comprehensive social studies major. Further, during the fall semester, the College of Education and Human Sciences approved a change to the Social Studies, Broadfield Teaching History Emphasis (Code 500-020) that encompasses the disciplines in the various emphases listed above. Therefore, specific emphases in the Social Studies, Broadfield Teaching Comprehensive Major are no longer needed. Beginning in Fall 2020, we will have one comprehensive major with a history emphasis for preparing future social studies teachers.
