If your parent requests a loan on your behalf for more than your budgeted educational expenses, we must look at those expected expenses, deduct what you get in aid, and the remaining amount is what we can give in a parent loan. Part of your current aid package may include work study eligibility. If you do not plan to earn all of your work-study we could cancel all or part of it and then be able to give your parent additional loan money.

I authorize reducing or canceling my work study eligibility to accommodate more parent loan if necessary.
