Students who are enrolled at a regionally accredited university in the United States may be exempted from submitting the above information if they have completed college-level (non-ESL) coursework in English composition. Consult with our Admissions Office (admissions@uwec.edu) to learn if your coursework can be used to determine English proficiency for admission purposes.

If you have taken an English proficiency test or attended an ESL school that is not listed above, contact our Admissions Office to see if it is an appropriate means for us to evaluate your level of English proficiency for admission purposes.
